A revolution in kit building...from H. H. Scott

H. H. Scott has been responsible for many innovations in the high fidelity field. Each product he has produced has gained the recognition and praise of discriminating audiophiles. The latest product of his inventive genius is the model 2000, a Hi-Fi unit that can be completed by the owner himself.

The model 2000 is a complete audio system, including amplifier, tuner, and speakers, all designed and built to H. H. Scott's standards. The amplifier is a balanced design with separate power supplies for each channel, ensuring maximum performance and flexibility.

Like its predecessor, the model 2000 employs high-quality components and construction methods. The cabinet is expertly crafted, and the components are carefully selected and matched. The result is a system that is not only capable of delivering high-quality audio, but also offers a unique experience in the creation of your own audio system.

The model 2000 is a testament to H. H. Scott's commitment to excellence and innovation, and is sure to be a welcome addition to any audio enthusiast's collection.
